

MISS LEISHMAN IS DUCHESS OF CROY

Church Ceremony at Geneva Is Witnessed by 200 Invited Guests.

HONEYMOON AT AIX-LES-BAINS

Emperor William Declares It Impossible for Him to Acknowledge Wedding Officially.

[Special Cable to The Times-Dispatch.] Geneva, Switzerland, October 28.—Miss Nancy Leishman, daughter of John G. A. Leishman, former American ambassador to Berlin, was married to Karl, Duke of Croy, at St. Joseph's church at noon today. The civil ceremony was performed yesterday in the town hall at Versoix, a small village seven miles from here.

A wedding breakfast given in the west wing of the Hotel National followed the ceremony, and more than 100 guests lingered there until after 10 o'clock, when the bride and groom left for Zurich, where they will spend the night. The honeymoon will be spent at Aix-les-Bains.

Twice the ceremony was interrupted by the cracking of benches in the church and on each occasion the bride became a trifle paler than she was when she entered the church.

It became known to-day that Mrs. Leishman called upon the Kaiser in a few days ago in hope of inducing him to publicly recognize her daughter as the Duchess of Croy, following the marriage. The Kaiser, it is said, refused.

I cannot possibly acknowledge the wedding officially, but if my private opinion is any satisfaction, I will say that I think Karl would be a snob and a weakling if he did not marry Miss Leishman.

Regarded as Marguerite Wilke.

Upon learning this, the majority of the members of the German royal household left the bride with never he recognized either in Germany or Austria as the Duchess of Croy, but will be accounted the mercenary wife of Karl.

St. Joseph's Church, which is hardly more than a tiny chapel, was packed with nearly 200 invited guests when the bride party arrived and the enclosure in the church was filled with the fragrance of flowers and the sound of music.

Two Swiss guards, dressed in crimson and purple, and armed with long rapier, preceded the wedding party up the path to the church, and when the numbers of the two families had passed in the church guards remained on guard at the door.

Miss Leishman was extremely pale as she entered the church, and appeared to be leaning heavily upon the arm of her father.

After the ceremony had commenced, a wooden bench gave away under the crush and snapped with such a report that the bride bled and looked behind her.

The distance was such that Albe Blanchard, who came from Paris to perform the ceremony, was forced to stop. A few minutes later another bench broke and the same interruption occurred.

How even when the duke slipped the wedding ring upon his bride's finger, her face became a mass of color, and she appeared more at ease.

The duke's mother, the Dowager Duchess of Croy, had sufficiently recovered from the attack of a gripe, which prevented her from attending the civil ceremony yesterday, and entered the church upon the arm of her son, Karl, while the duke's younger brother, Prince Engelbert, escorted Mrs. Leishman.

RUMOR CAUSES RUN ON BANK

Started by Foreigner Who Could Not Get Check Cashed.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Philadelphia, October 28.—A foreigner yesterday morning attempted to get a check upon which the endorsement was wrong, cashed at the Kensington Trust company, and because the cashier was unable to understand him and explain why he could not cash the check, the foreigner circulated a rumor among the neighborhood that the trust company had failed.

Within two hours at least a thousand depositors of the trust company gathered outside of the building, demanding their money. As fast as possible every deposit was met, and before the doors of the bank closed this evening about $150,000 had been paid out, closing out a great many of the smaller accounts carried by the trust company. About $400,000 accounts were withdrawn.

Today during the afternoon and evening police riot calls were sent by, and the reserves were rushed to the trust company to keep the excited depositors in order.

The trust company is one of the strongest of the smaller institutions in the city.

DEEP CRACKS IN JOINTS

Of Toes and Fingers, Hands So Bad Had to Sleep With Gloves On, Suffered Agony, Cuticura Soap and Ointment Completely Cured.

P. O. Box 378, El Paso, Texas.—"My trouble began December, 1911. It commenced on me by causing a scurf-like skin and my two joints, finger joints and lips commenced to crack and split open. My finger cracks would bleed all day long; the cracks were very deep and my thumbs seemed to be cracked to the bone. My hands were so bad that I had to sleep with gloves on. The cracks in my lips would bleed often during the day and I used to put adhesive plaster across them to try to keep them closed. My toes would bleed and I would find blood in my socks when the day's work was done. The skin around the cracks was red and inflamed. I wore shoes one size too large on account of my feet being so sore. I used to become frantic with pain at times. My hands and feet used to crack, bleed and bleed.

I suffered agony for four months. I saw the advertisement of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and as a last resort I answered and got samples immediately. After trying them one night the next morning I found relief. I went to town and got some Cuticura Soap and Ointment. From that time I commenced with the Cuticura Soap and Ointment until completely cured was just nineteen days." (Signed) Jack Harrison, Nov. 19, 1912.

Cuticura Soap 25c. and Cuticura Ointment 50c. are sold throughout the world. A single set is often sufficient. Large sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."

SAVED FROM DEATH BY WOMAN'S DARING

Crew of American Bark Tell of Her Heroism on Perilous Voyage.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Philadelphia, October 28.—A woman's daring courage in a terrific hurricane off Cape Hatteras saved the big American bark John Ena from destruction and the lives of the crew of thirty-seven men, according to the story told to-day when the vessel docked, after a perilous voyage of 138 days, from Hilo, Hawaii.

The heroine is the wife of Captain Charles V. Olsen, master of the bark. On October 21 the bark, which had been within 100 miles of this port three weeks ago and had been blown back nearly to Bermuda, ran into a furious hurricane off Cape Hatteras and was torn to ribbons by a wind which blew at the rate of ninety miles an hour.

Captain Olsen was on the bridge. Chief Officer Rodrik MacKenzie, with the crew, was clearing away the wreckage.

Mrs. Olsen was in the captain's office. Startled by a particularly heavy booming from the sea, she looked out just in time to see the sailor at the wheel desert his post. He was a green hand, and was badly frightened. Mrs. Olsen rushed out on the poop deck. The wind nearly carried her overboard. Slowly she crept along the deck of the heaving craft with her hands clutching the wheel. With almost superhuman strength she swung the heavy wheel around and brought the ship about.

Captain Olsen's seamanship told him that there was something wrong at the helm when the vessel brought up in the end. He worked his way back over the wreckage and found his wife bravely clinging to the wheel.

KEEL OF BATTLESHIP LAID

Last Order Placed by Government for Superdreadnaught.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Newport News, Va., October 28.—The keel of the battleship Pennsylvania, the last ordered by the United States Navy Department for a superdreadnaught cruiser, was laid yesterday at the yards of the Newport News Ship-Building and Dry Dock Company.

The ship, on which the Texas was laid, is being used, having been enlarged to accommodate the increased length and breadth of the Pennsylvania.

Not only will the Pennsylvania be larger than the Texas, but she will be equipped with modern turbine engines, whereas the engines of the Texas are of the old-fashioned reciprocating type.

The Pennsylvania calls for completion in thirty-two months. It will be fourteen months before she is ready to launch.

MRS. EATON'S FATE WITH JURY TO-DAY

Defendant Appears Calm and Cool as She Finishes Long Examination.

MAY SEEK TO REOPEN CASE

First Husband of Accused Woman Said to Be on Way to Testify.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Plymouth, Mass., October 28.—Daniel Henry Alinsworth, first husband of Mrs. Jennie May Eaton, on trial for the murder of her second husband, Rear Admiral Joseph G. Eaton, is being brought here by State detectives and will be called as a witness against his former wife, according to a report to-night.

The taking of testimony in the case closed to-day, but District Attorney Barker will endeavor to have the case reopened and the testimony of Alinsworth admitted. Mr. Barker would not say whether Alinsworth's testimony will be used in an attempt to convict Mrs. Eaton of the crime or whether it will be used in an examination to determine the defendant's sanity.

William A. Morse will occupy two hours of the morning session to-morrow with his argument in favor of acquittal. District Attorney Barker's plea for conviction is expected to be ended in time for the jury to begin its deliberations.

The widow of the naval officer has been on trial since October 14, the prosecution having taken seven days and the defense four in the presentation of testimony.

On Stand for Sixteen Hours. At 12:45 o'clock to-day Mrs. Eaton resumed her seat outside the bar in closure after having been on the witness stand for sixteen hours, during nine of which she was subjected to an exhaustive cross-examination by the district attorney. The defendant appeared calm and cool as she stepped from the stand, and she looked at her attorney, William A. Morse, with a confident smile. All in court agreed that Mrs. Eaton had been an excellent witness in her own behalf, and the manner in which the prosecution indicated its close left no doubt in the minds of spectators that the State had failed to break down any portion of the woman's testimony.

During the last two hours of cross-examination Mrs. Eaton was forced again to rehearse the scenes of the admiral's last hours. Dr. Arthur Everett Austin, of Boston, a medical expert, testifying for the defense, declared that the arsenic which killed the admiral was taken in a single dose on the Wednesday preceding his death. Dr. Austin was of the opinion that the arsenic had been taken either at the noon meal or shortly afterward on Wednesday. The admiral died Thursday night.

On Wednesday Mrs. Eaton spent the day with her daughter, June Alinsworth Keyes, at the latter's home in Medford.

Admits Conversation. Mrs. Eaton admitted she had the conversation with June overheard by the daughter told of the proposal to put Mrs. Eaton and Keyes out of the way and then he and June take a trip to Europe. She also admitted going home early the next day, but said she hurried because she was certain the admiral was either crazy or had been taking drugs to make such a statement.

In rebuttal for the prosecution this afternoon, Dr. Harvey P. Severly, of Scituate, testified that Mrs. Eaton and the admiral brought a child to his office in August, 1909, and that he diagnosed the illness as cholera infantum. The child died the next day. Dr. Severly denied the statement of Mrs. Eaton that she offered him $1,000 if he would cure the child.

One of the last witnesses was Charles R. Henry, a workman of Norfolk, who said that he saw Admiral Eaton three days before his death, that he appeared in good spirits, he admitted under cross-examination by the defense that on Wednesday, when Mrs. Eaton was starting for Boston, he heard the admiral say: "There goes a lovely woman."

POPE COMPANY IN RECEIVERS' HANDS

Lack of Working Capital Said to Be Reason for Failure of Motor Car Concern.

Hartford, Conn., October 28.—An announcement was made here to-day that the Pope Manufacturing Company had been placed in the hands of a receiver. The company made motor vehicles of various descriptions. Colonel George Pope, treasurer of the company, has been made temporary receiver, and has qualified under a bond of $200,000.

Lack of Working Capital. New York, October 28.—Local bankers familiar with the affairs of the Pope Manufacturing Company said the company had been in financial trouble for some time. The company's troubles primarily were due to a lack of working capital. The company had been unable to obtain loans from banks, and its credit was exhausted. The company's assets were sold, and the receiver was appointed.

Denies Insolvency. Boston, Mass., October 28.—Auxiliary receivership proceedings against the Pope Manufacturing Company, of Hartford, Conn., to-day were instituted by the New Department Manufacturing Company, of Bristol, Conn., in the United States district court here.

Pending a hearing to-morrow Judge Putnam issued a restraining order keeping the property intact. While assisting in the receivership proceedings, the Pope Company denies it is insolvent, but says it has been unable to perform its credit to meet accruing obligations.
